

I would encourage the FCC to support the Indiana No-Call laws as they currently stand. My family and I appreciate the freedom afforded us to live a quiet, normal life. We appreciate that our privacy is no longer infringed by unwanted solicitors and sales representatives. We are free of pressure to buy or donate to unseen persons or causes. We are not put in the awkward position of being rude to unwanted callers on the phone, many of whom refuse to take "no" for an answer. Please do not weaken this great law we have in Indiana. Certainly our personal privacy rights and freedom to not receive unwanted calls exceed any right others have to communicate unwanted sales and solicitations to us and people like us.

Sincerely,
Brian Daniels
