

The FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections. Citizen's privacy is increasingly being invaded through unsolicited mail and e-mail enough as it is. Relationship marketing and captured audience marketing techniques assault us too. Where is our quality of life going if we don't have a little control over our time and privacy? We are more than just consumers of stuff being sold and we have a right as taxpayers and citizens to federal and state protection from invasive and / or illegal behavior of businesses and industry .
