

I am writing to ask that the FCC not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy Law protections. Since this law went into effect, the number of unwanted sales and solicitation calls to my home has almost completely ceased. I now no longer have to screen all my calls with an answering machine in order to avoid the hassle of answering the phone-- only to find that it is yet another sales call. Please do not weaken the protections we have here in Indiana through any actions you might take.
