

I have enjoyed not being pestered by the usual 3-5 calls each evening when I get home from work. Telemarketers were calling until ten o'clock at night, and my dinner was interrupted every night. I do not want this irritation to resume. Let these people send their sales pitches through the mail and allow hard-working people to have some peace.