

I oppose loosening the rules designed to promote and protect diversity of media ownership. These rules were adopted to ensure that the public would receive a diverse range of viewpoints from the media, and not simply the opinions of a handful of media conglomerates.

The FCC is not acting as a tool to serve and protect the people, but rather once again, you are enabling the corporate conglomerates; it is the monopoly game of winner take all. The government and FCC exist to preserve rights of individuals and of the society as a whole, not of a few individuals. The airways are/were PUBLIC spaces-- a government of individuals, not corporations. But you simply let them buy out individual rights. It is a travesty; it will no doubt take another revolution to take back our country. The FCC should be protecting the public space, not wholesaling it to the highest bidder. This must stop. Give us an ever increasing number of media possibilities, give us ever expanding diversity of expression, take back our country!
