

I believe the actions you are about to take will affect the general public, advertising as it is known today (and today it is out of line in cost) as well as to allow for mega mergers creating a monopoly in this business. It is another situation, with the outlook bright for attorneys in the future to ride in, break up the monopoly, make 100's of millions of dollars and smile all the way to the bank. What is more disturbing, I suspect this is all being arranged by lawyers today, potentially those that will reap rewards tomorrow to tear it back down, In the mean time, free press will diminish, costs will rise and opinions will be only those of the "powerful". Please give this more time for all to review.
