

Comment to 02-380

In reference to a request for comment on use on frequencies in the 700mhz band, we would like to make the statement that use of these frequencies would expedite the build out of rural broadband and the integration of communication between emergency services. As wireless ISP's build out systems they become available for Home Land defense and other emergency response services. Line of site is removed and instantaneous access to web based systems is achieved. As to the tracking of the use of these frequencies we suggest the integration of GPS chips to facilitate control and database tracking.
