

I believe that competition is crucial to consumers in any media market and that companies should be able to own fewer outlets in each city not more.