

I believe that deregulation of broadcast ownership will seriously reduce the quality and variety of information. Too many stations and media outlets are already owned by too few companies. We need variety for true journalism to emerge. If five or six major companies own the majority of the media outlets, the media can not help but become stale and controlled. Please do not let the large companies own more than they already do! Their control can already be seen and is reducing the quality of the media.