I want to go on record as being in favor of having the option to keep my cell phone number when changing plans. I understand this is a possibility this November 24, and I am all for it! Yours, Paula J. Schultz

To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing to say that I am in favor of ensuring wireless telephone customers the right to carry over their telephone numbers when they change telephone service carriers.

It seems to me that since the consumer has been paying all along for a particular telephone number they should be allowed to keep this number.

To Whom it May Concern,

I'm taking the time to write in support of Docket 95-116 which would allow individuals to keep their mobile phone number even if they switch companies. It is infuriating to the "little guy" to think that the phone companies are mounting a huge campaign to defeat this proposal. What are they afraid of? That they would actually have to keep your business by earning it, instead of by coercion? Please do everything in your power to see that this proposal becomes the law. Thank you.

I am definitely in favor of the FCC's action allowing customers to keep mobile phone numbers when switching service from one provider to another.

I am writing to urge you to implement the plan to let consumers keep their current cell phone numbers even if they switch to a different cell phone company. If a certain cell phone company is not meeting our needs, we need the ability to choose the best plan without having to deal with the hassle of changing numbers and possibly losing business because of it.

Dear FCC,

please pass the law allowing customers to keep their cell phone number should they change companies.
