

I am writing to express my utmost concern to the state of the media ownership in this nation and it's relationship to the quality of the content we are seeing. As the ownership of media outlets becomes increasingly consolidated we are experiences a rapid deterioration of perspectives, options and diversity in our program. Concerned primarily with profits, media monopolies squander away any attempts at objective news reporting and quality programing for shallow, sensationalist. In order to have a thriving and truly democratic society we need a diversity of ideas from a diversity of sources. People over profits, ideas over propoganda.

The government has the responsibility to step in and prevent these monopolies from consolidating and further strangling our information sources.

Yours truly, Marlo Pedroso
