

I am truly grateful to be a U.S. citizen. I am convinced that our country's strength lies in the diversity of views we allow, and even encourage, as a routine part of our national life. Without that diversity we risk eroding the foundation of our greatness and our future freedom.