

As a media regulatory agency, your responsibility should be to regulate the media in support of the Constitution, our society, and our political system. Relaxing the regulations that prevent monopoly ownership of the broadcast media does just the opposite. The Constitution guarantees and our political system requires an unrestricted access to information. (Virtual) monopoly ownership will effectively eliminate dissenting viewpoints among the major media outlets. The FCC should STRENGTHEN these laws, not relax them! The FCC should be reducing Murdoch's media influence not strengthening it.

Thank you,

Thomas Turner