

I believe that the increasing concentration of mass media poses a major threat to our proud traditions of democracy and an informed electorate. I therefore oppose any loosening of regulations on the ownership of media outlets. The airways are public, not private, property. It follows that they should serve the public, rather than private, interests. Continued regulation and restriction of ownership is the only way to prevent the erosion of democracy.