

I support media diversity

The current move toward the monopolization of media is antithetical to therepublic in which we are supposed to be living. Our county can only remain free by maintaining diversity of expression via multiple ownership of both newspapers and radio. Especially now, because of easy access to other country's new presentations, one realizes the paucity of coverage in the United States. I now have become a real fan of BBC!

I heartily object to miniaturation of citizenry through the maximization of media ownership. It seems to be all about CONTROL. If media conglomerates are enlarged then I believe the C in FCC had better be changed to Control instead of Communication. The word communication implies open pathways. If you select the option of allowing less diversity those pathways further close.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Margaret A. Holman
