

In our age of information, and especially in rural areas, high-speed internet access is now necessary, not just desirable. I suggest maximizing availability and speed wherever possible.