

I am writing to applaud your recent rule changes requiring express written permission for facsimile advertisements. The new rules may be the only way for me and countless others to get our fax machines back from unscrupulous businesses and scam artists who illegally foist their advertising costs upon us. I count the days the new rule goes into effect.

Thankful and with best regards, William Bogot