

I disapprove of doing away with the Amateur Radio Code requirements for obtaining an Amateur Licences, further recommend that the 5, 13 and 20 WPM be retained as a further incentive to be more efficient in communicating in an EMERGENCY as well as experimental endeavors to enhance our hobby. When all else fails go to CW!

VR Bill, W7SMN, learned the code in the BSA in 1933, attended Naval Radio School in 1940 as a consequence, finally got my ticket in 1952.

Don't use CW often but when the chips are down it works!
