

I strongly oppose the proposal to eliminate Morse Code testing from the requirements for Amateur Radio licensing. Morse Code testing insures a level of skill and commitment that is consistent with the broad privileges granted to Amateur Radio operators. Morse Code is still a very important mode on the Amateur bands and is likely to remain such for many years to come.