

I oppose legislation forcing HDTV television makers to implement draconian copy protection measures (such as a broadcast flag) in their televisions. This is a clear example of the tail wagging the dog, with $1 billion/year media companies trying to push around both consumers and the $35 billion/year consumer electronics industry. Let the media companies stop broadcasting if they don't feel "safe" -- someone will fill their bandwidth. Thank you for your time.