

We support the comments of the Community Broadcasters Association and wish to add the following:

As a non-profit educational facilitator providing much needed instruction to future generations, we feel it important that we may begin the process of educating young Americans in the use and deployment of digital communications. Without the ability to convert to this digital technology our educational mission will be relegated to the dustbin of history.