

i would like to comment on the janet jackson situation i wanna say that im tired of everyone riding her talking about kids were watching well kids were watching when madonna kissed christina and britney in the mouth and no one said a thing about that so i say if you are gonna complain complain about everything and not one incident. and i feel like you guys shouldnt punish justin because he didnt know anything about it