

why would the fcc even consider the radio amateur foundation petition RM-10868 they want to keep the question pools away from the public how would a person study for the test why do most general and advanced and extras licenses want to hold on to the morse code test for hf bands and new hams to get hf privileges if a person is in a boat and his life in danger which way would he want to get help to him would he send morse code out or would he use his mike on his hf radio to get help what about a person in a cabin that needs help real bad will he use morse code or use his mike on his hf radio to get help i dont think that any person would use morse code if his life was in danger he would use his mike on his hf radio to get help to him fast as he can his mike is the quick way to get help to him maybe he dont know how to send morse code so i oppose this petition RM-10868 and that the fcc does the same please drop the morse code test for all the ham exam test from KC8QWW technician want to get my general license thank you
