

The Morse Code CW requirement should be removed from all license classes.

Our entire licensing process should be simplified and consolidated into as few as two classes, an entry level and a full privilege license, both with full spectrum and mode privileges. The only difference would be the beginner limited to transmitters of lower power, 100-150 watts.

This restructuring would eliminate the endless code/no-code/privilege/incentive debates, be much more representative of tomorrow's amateur, and be more consistent with what other countries are doing.

Thank you for your consideration.
