

Hello

I only wish to act for an advocate for Broadband over PowerLine(BPL). The fact that most of the country is rural and the Internet has become a medium for information, business transactions, etc., I feel this is an excellent opportunity for folks who would not otherwise have Broadband via Cable or DSL to have very easy Internet access and at very high fast speeds. This would be a boom to the US economy as it would increase spending from the consumer, boost competition, driving prices down, etc. Please let this technology exist and not become impeded by ancient technology (i.e. HAM Radio). As long as power companies can assure that it is safe and I won't get fried, I'm all for high speed Internet. If HAM radio has to go, then so be it. It was nice for it's time but this is in fact the 21st century. Thank you.
