

This introduction to BPL is unproven and risky. Other countries have banned it for it's interference with other radio frequencies. What could possibly be the real need to have this technology? It sounds to me like another money making scheme that will have an immense negative impact on we the consumers. Shun this technology before it is to late to undue the damage.