

Dear FCC Representatives:Satellite radio broadcasts are very important to me and my family.It permits us to listen to continuous broadcast of important information on a regular basis without the never ending commercials and other programming that allows me very little choice in determining what I want to listen to. Prior to the availability of satellite radio I would constantly change stations to find anything worthwhile, and usually ended my search by turning off the radio. Please let progress continue to give me and all other Americans the opportunity of our free choice of how we spend our money and what we listen to. Don't let a group representing outdated communications convince you that they should have special governmental protection, as they have had over 80 years to make their improvements and have failed to do so.

Respectfully, Gilbert J. Waitkus, Tawas City, MI.
