

Dear FCC, Please do not interfere with XM Satellite Radio over their offering weather and traffic reports. The National Association of Broadcasters has no business telling XM what they can and cannot offer. I make a choice every month to pay for XM radio and I find their weather and traffic reports very helpful in my hellish commute around our Nation's Capital. Broadcast Radio is losing listeners because they do not offer the consumer what they want. You the FCC should do something about the monopoly that the evil Clear Channel communications has on our airwaves. Clear Channel and their ilk are what has killed commercial radio.

I was a radio DJ many years ago and it is truly sad to see what has happened to the industry thanks to the FCC.

Don't Screw With XM Radio!
