

I feel that this statute is absolutely ridiculous and further limits what we can do as consumers. People have been taping radio broadcasts since day one and that won't change. What's the difference between making an analog copy of some songs as opposed to recording streams from the internet...Sure, it is much easier to circulate internet recordings but I don't see it becoming a huge, widespread practice...

If online radio stations want to start charging for the privilege of listening to their streams, then so be it. There are a few stations I would gladly fork money over to if that's what it takes..

Please do not pass this ordinance as it will only make people speak out even more strongly against the FCC and government organizations. You don't want to plunge the public one step closer to anarchy now do you?
