

It's very simple....when a company promises something to the government and the government grants them the right to proceed - then their promise should be upheld. Satellite radio promised their services would serve national interests only and they would leave local information to the licenced radio stations. I support the NAB petition. Thank you.