

My husband and I both are hard of hearing. I am very hard of hearing One comment I particularly agree with is that when you lose your sight, you lose touch with thing, but when you lose your hearing, you lose touch with people.
We miss people and when there is no captioning on television, there is no television for us on that station. I remains one source of information, entertainment and education. Please do not eliminate closed captioning. To know what we who are hard of hearing go through, stuff your ears with cotton and go through a day.
