

We use prepaid calling cards of a major telecommunication company. Yesterday, upon placing a call using the prepaid card, a recorded message by the telecommunication company stated that the FCC was reviewing the rates applied to prepaid calling cards. The company urged that the customers contact the FCC or the White House asking to keep the phone rates low. We certainly would like to see the rates remain low so that a small business like ours can continue to control expenses and stay competitive. Thank you for your attention.
