

As an advanced user of the Internet, I would like to say that I disagree with the movement for the Government's integration with the Internet more than it is now. I feel that if this is passed, one's rights to the Internet will be violated. Also, on note, I feel that the government should not pry into the civillians personal or buisness life without having to go through a very difficult and documented process first.