

I (and the Constitution) have no problem with lawful execution of a court order. The problem that I have with easy, immediate internet spying by anyone including the FBI and other federal and local law enforcement is the potential for mis-use and abuse. We periodically read about illegal physical searches of premises without proper court orders. I have always been an advocate of law enforcement when that investigation and enforcement is conducted according to the requirements specified by the Constitution. I am VERY concerned that zelots are bypassing and violating the Constitution in the name of Homeland Security.
