

You might say that Sinclair Broadcast Group uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. One-sided documentaries designed to sway the election to suit Sinclair's agenda does not. Instead of news and commentary produced at "News Central" far away, it's more important that we see real people from our own communities and more substantive news about issues that matter on TV.