

I have never been more pleased than to have the no call list take effect. Dinner with my children is no longer interrupted by irritating telemarketers. I am a highly educated professional who cherishes the peace and quiet of my (emphasis) home and feel if I need a service I do not need some nay bob cold calling me to access their service. To override the very functional and popular law in wisconsin would be a major intrusion into my and my fellow citizens right to privacy. I hope government does not bend to the special interests behind the effort to weaken our (finally) peace and quiet.
