

Broadband internet service is still very limited in my area. Further limitation in choice will prevent competition from forcing companies to offer fair prices and quality service/product. Without competition, there is no real incentive to improve.