

Please ensure that Vonage (the broadband phone company that is advertising all over the networks) allows its customers to transfer their numbers to another phone carrier. They are refusing to transfer my phone number back to Comcast after providing me with nearly non-existent customer service and a phone service that doesn't even allow my friend to reach me by phone. I should not have to change my phone number to rid myself of a company that does not deserve to be in business. This company should be exposed for what they are and made to reimburse the customers they have cheated.

Sandy