

There is no hard evidence at this time that cell phone use wouldn't interfere with navigational instruments. Cell phone use would enable terrorists to coordinate a plan of action more effectively. You would leave the flight attendants to become police officers in flight to police the use of cell phones onboard the aircraft, compromising our ability to maintain a safe, secure cabin environment and to conduct emergency evacuations. Already the cabin environment is stressful this will add only more stress on passengers and the crew. Thank you for protecting our workplace.
