

I am against the sale of the Voom satellite to Echostar. Voom is a much needed entity in the satellite business as it provides services that compete with existing companies and also helps to keep subscription fees low.