

I am opposed to the sale of the Voom/Rainbow satellite to Echostar/Dishnetwork. As the leader in High Definition TV, this sale would clearly limit the public's access to high definition programming. It would also result in a larger company (Echostar) squashing competition. Competition is a must in this type of arena. It is not in the best interest of the public to allow this sale to proceed.