

We really need Voom to continue operation. Without the competition the other satellite companies and cable companies have no sense of urgency in providing HD content to the consumers. Voom is the only company that provides both quantity and quality HD programming.