

I think that if you let eachstar buy this statlite it will be a bad thing because you will again only have two providers that you can turn to.I would like to see three so they will have to keep prices down and also that Voom llc wants to keep running the service and with out a satillite they will have no way of doing this at this time.Voom is ahead of it time in HD content and should be able to contiune services.So please do not let eachstar buy the satillites and licences from voom and let get some great compition going so us consumers have a choices.
