

I am currently a VOOM subscriber for over a year now. VOOM has had a good track record with my account in providing excellent customer HD service and support. This programming is new and as many will tell you still in the infancy stage. Simply, we need to continue with companies like VOOM that are taking it to the edge in response to the overwhelming consumer demand for using all of the new technologies available.

In this great country of America, competition is the best solution to implementation of new technologies, new products, and new services. Voom is that company and is clearly the best is clearly in the best interest of the public.

Sincerely,
Jeff Kraber
