

I don't want the FCC to grant permission for the EchoStar Company (owners of The Dish Network) to buy the satellite named "Rainbow 1". If this sale goes through, hundreds of employees will lose their jobs. Also, it will give The Dish Network and Direct TV so much power that it will become virtually impossible for any other satellite company to enter the marketplace and compete. If the FCC gives approval of the sale of the satellite, there will be a monopoly so big that competition will be impossible and it will drive up the prices of satellite television.
