

To whom it may concern-

As a Northwest Airlines Flight Attendant, I oppose the proposal of the use of cell phones onboard the aircraft during flight. In my opinion, it will lead to more air-rage as many passengers are very loud and annoying during boarding while talking on their phones. They don't pay attention to anything going on around them or any of the boarding announcements, and some people get irritated with the situation as it is now. On behalf of ALL Flight Attendants in the USA, please don't let this problem-causing proposal turn into a in-flight catastrophe.

Sincerely,

Michael L. Murphy
