

I would like to make a claim against the Toyota commercial, where it is said that if you buy that particular Toyota vehicle that you will be cured of addrenalitis. A have addrenalitis also know as Addison's disease and I find it very insulting that Toyota would say that if you buy that particular vehicle that your addrenalitis (Addison's Disease) will be cured, when in fact there is no cure. Toyota is disregarding the seriousness, complications, life-style changes and ect. of a person having Addison's Disease. If all I had to do was buy the Toyota vehicle to be cured, I would, but since it does not maybe Toyota should just give me the truck so I will not have Addison's Disease anymore! That is what the claim, buy truck and diseased is cured. This commercial is not just deceptive but it also misrepresents someone with Addisons and Addisonian's are all ready misunderstood due to the rare nature of the disease.
