

As an frequent flyer I am constantly annoyed by the incessant use of cellular phones in airport gate areas and aboard plans prior to take off and upon landing. It is impossible to not be exposed to these continuous conversations. Many people make one call after another, talking in a loud voice, until the cabin door is closed. This is very irritating and disturbing to passengers around them. If these calls are allowed to contine for the duration of flights, there will be inevitable confrontations and potential for violence. Please do not allow this to happen.
