

Letting at&t and cingular wireless merge into one company was bad for the consumers. Cingular is not providing good service to the former at&t customers, and cell service prices have gone up. More competition is good for consumers.