

Indiana's Do Not Call list is an effective way to avoid invasion of privacy. We do not have unwanted calls coming during family time. We do not have unnecessary calls left on the answering machine. If we want a service or something being sold, we have the internet to find such information, we do not need these calls interrupting our family and private time. Imagine for a minute that you are sitting down to a nice dinner with family and friends only to be interrupted by a sales call for a product that you have no use for. The lady does not take no for an answer and you feel yourself becoming rude in front of friends. Not a pleasant situation for everyone involved.
